RACE FOR JAILER BETWEEN TWO MEN FOR APPOINTMENT

Friends of A. A. Beadles Think He Would Go Against His Own Personal Interests By Accepting Office and Leaving Railroad Position.

MAYOR-ELECT IS UNDECIDED.

One of the most interesting questions in connection with the inauguration of Mayor-elect Jan. 1, P. Smith is his probable action in regard to the office of city jailer. There is no doubt, that he will assume the right and duty of appointing someone in place of the late Samuel Beadles, who died before taking the office. On the other hand, Tom Everts, the incumbent, will remain in the position until he is satisfied he is not entitled to hold over until the next election.

A. A. Beadles, son of the late jailer-elect, and George Andrecht, the Republican candidate for the office, are both mentioned as possible appointees, while George Lehnard is suggested as deputy jailer.

While the fact that his father was elected to the office, lends a sentimental influence in favor of the appointment of A. A. Beadles, it is said his best friends are advising him against the acceptance of the office, if it is offered. The reasons are based on considerations of the young man's own good. He is freight conductor on the railroad, and stands an excellent chance of promotion to be passenger conductor. Even now he makes as much as the jailer's office pays, and if he should take the appointment, it would be only until the election, and he would have to spend more than the salary he received to be nominated and elected. There are constant duties on the part of a political office holder, which makes the position less remunerative than a position in private life at the same salary. Besides this, his friends point out the fact, that his election would give him but four years on the salary, and then he would be out of a job, and he would lose his place in the line of promotion with the railroad.

Mayor Smith declined to make any statement about the appointment, except that he said he is still considering the matter.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Fire badly damaged a five story building at 72-80 Lake street, inflicting a loss of $150,000 on the structure and a number of small manufacturing concerns that occupied it. The fire spread so rapidly that some occupants had narrow escapes from asphyxiation by smoke, but all reached the street in safety.

Made in Wages of Employees of New York Central.

New York, Dec. 27.—Following the lead of the Erie railroad, the New York Central today announced a reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of its 75,000 employees. The cut will be made January 1. It is expected that the other roads will announce reductions in their wage schedules.

COARSE OF HIS BABY.

Taken to Chicago by Man Too Poor to Buy Casket for Burial.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Too poor to buy a casket for his dead baby and too devout to bury it in an unconsecrated ground, Morris Swartz, of Kenosha, Wis., brought the corpse to Chicago in a basket today, and was obliged to carry it back again for a burial permit. Efforts were made to avoid the return trip but the Kenosha authorities' counsel and telephone refused to waive the necessity of obtaining a permit or to give one without a full knowledge of the case. The baby was born early on Wednesday morning and died a few hours later. Swartz sought the aid of the Hebrew Charity association in Chicago. The body will be brought back to Chicago tomorrow.

No Signs of Trouble are Found By Adjutant General Johnston West of the Tennessee River.

Confers With Warehousemen and Tobacco Growers Today and Makes His Report to Governor Willson.

There are no signs of trouble west of the Tennessee river. "The situation is well in hand," said Major P. P. Johnston, adjutant general of the state, who has been sent to this end of the state by Governor Willson to investigate the condition in the dark tobacco district. Continuing he said: "The situation is quiet. There are rumors but no actual trouble, and no movements of the discontented. All told the situation at Hopkinsville is well in hand."

When asked if troops would be stationed in this section, he said so far as he had learned there is no trouble west of the Tennessee river. "The troops at Hopkinsville are not to protect the people so much as to execute the orders of the court and to inspire confidence in the people."

When asked if evidence had been gotten since the recent raid he said, "There is a good deal of evidence, but the main difficulty will be to inspire confidence to tell all they know."

Questioned as to the report that night riders were leaving Trigg county, he stated, "It is probably somewhat exaggerated. I have no information on that subject."

Some anonymous letters have been sent in the purchase, as well as in other western parts of the state, but Major Johnston stated that the post office department is after the senders and they will be run down. The state is not concerned in prosecuting these cases.

Major Johnston paid a splendid tribute to the firm stand Governor Willson has taken in the disorder in the dark tobacco district. "Law has to be established and it will be," continued Major Johnston. "The people around Hopkinsville are very hopeful and all speak favorably of Governor Willson's energy and purpose and have full faith in his ultimate success."

Major Johnston arrived in the city last night from Mayfield and Fulton, where he spent yesterday conferring with the growers and buyers. Today he held audiences with local tobacco dealers and telegraphed his daily report to Governor Willson. While withholding it from publication, Major Johnston intimated that the purchase is lawabiding. Today Major Johnston left for Madisonville, where he will confer with the tobacco handlers of Madisonville, Seabree, Slaughter and Henderson. According to present plans, if conditions there are as here, he will be in Frankfort in a day or two and begin his full report to the governor.

A reporter asked if especial protection were given to warehouses containing tobacco of foreign governments, and Major Johnston replied that ample protection is given every warehouse where protection is needed.

POWERS CASE

Georgetown, Ky., Dec. 27.—(Special.)—The defense has closed in the Powers case and rebuttal evidence begun.

GRAND MARCH AT THE RINK

STARTS AT 10 O'CLOCK.

TEDDY BEARS SCARE CAT.

"Nature faking," reprehensible usually, becomes an art when it deceives the instinct of a wise animal. Mr. J. C. DeMott, proprietor of the Model Dye Works, 109 South Third street, owns a large sophisticated cat, of confiding disposition and remarkable sense. Few sights of a city will disturb the animal, but when a dry goods merchant sent a drove of Teddy Bears to the dye works this morning, the cat nearly went into convulsions, and it was necessary to cover them from sight. At their first appearance, sprawling on the counter, she hissed and fumed and backed, until she fell to the floor and then went into the very ecstasy of rage.

WITNESS SWEARS JEWELL TOLD HIM WHAT TO TESTIFY

Further time was asked in the case against James Jewell, saloon keeper at Sixth and Finley streets, charged with selling liquor last Sunday. In the case this morning the defense attempted to prove that Harry Smith, colored, stole a bottle of liquor from the bar. In the evidence given by Smith for the prosecution he swore he purchased the liquor, and since the warrant had been issued Jewell had approached him and told him to acknowledge in court that he stole the liquor. Smith swore that Jewell said he would stand by him in the charge of stealing liquor.

When this evidence was given, the prosecution wished several other persons that were not present to testify and Judge Cross continued the case until tomorrow morning.

Other cases in court this morning were: Ed. Petter, drunk and disorderly, dismissed; Henry Armstrong, petit larceny, continued until Monday; Lee Pryor, carrying concealed a deadly weapon, $25 and ten days in the county jail.

REV. WILLIAM GODDARD

Mrs. C. C. Mings received a telegram this morning announcing the death of her brother-in-law, the Rev. William Goddard, of Dallas, Tex. Mr. Goddard formerly lived in Paducah, where he has many friends who will be grieved to hear of his death. He was married 22 years ago in this city to Miss Cora Robertson, who survives him. He leaves a brother, George Goddard, of Mayfield, and a mother and father of London, England. For several years he has been pastor of Oak Cliff church, Dallas, Texas, where the funeral will take place at that church Sunday morning. Mrs. Mings left this morning to attend the burial.

MAY HAVE MILITIA HERE

In conference here this morning Adjutant General Johnston was impressed with the necessity of having a company of state guards in Paducah for southwestern Kentucky. It was learned that he was in conference with one gentleman today. If a company is enlisted General Johnston secured the promise of a prominent man to drill them at night. Several years have passed since Paducah boasted of a company of guards, and interest in the company lagged until finally the company was ordered dismissed. Since the Mayfield company disbanded this section has been without a company.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS EARLY IN JANUARY

Tip is Out That President H. C. Rhodes and Secretary Saunders Fowler Will Be Prevalent Upon to Accept Another Term.

BIG MEETING AT METROPOLIS.

Early in the first week of 1908 the Commercial club will meet and elect directors for the new year. Following the election of the directors a president and secretary will be elected. Following the usual policy of the club about one-third of the new board of directors will be new men. In this way the work of the club is shared by all the business men of the city. As understood, the meeting will be held January 2 or 3.

The tip is out that Mr. H. C. Rhodes will be elected president. As president, Mr. Rhodes has been exceptionally satisfactory and his reelection probably will be unanimous.

Since the resignation of Secretary D. W. Coons last summer, the club has been without a permanent secretary, but Mr. Saunders A. Fowler was elected temporary secretary, and he has been so successful that it is certain he will be continued as long as he will accept. It is not known whether he will accept owing to his business, but pressure will be brought to bear on account of the necessity of having a competent man in the secretary's chair.

Meeting for Railroad.

Another big open meeting will be held by the Commercial club January 7 or 8 and representatives of railroads will speak to the citizens. Mr. N. M. Burns, president of the C., St. L. & N. O. railroad, will be present and other officials, whose names have not been announced. Also advocates of the deep waterways will be guests of the club, and they will participate in the meeting.

Tonight the Commercial club of Metropolis will hold a big session at which Mr. Burns will be present, and a telephone message from the club this morning asked that Paducah be represented. The time is too brief in which to arrange for it; but a letter will be sent.

STATE PRESS MEETING

PLENTY OF WATER IN OHIO TO FLOAT GUNBOAT PADUCAH

Sufficient depth exists in the Ohio and Mississippi rivers for the gunboat Paducah to come here at present. This morning the gauge registered a stage of 20 feet, and according to the local river authorities the stage, under present conditions, should hold out for two weeks. Under orders from the department of the navy the Paducah will arrive at New Orleans next Tuesday and immediate communication will be made to this city in order to arrange the time and place of presentation of the silver service. As soon as the little fighter reaches New Orleans, Mayor Yeiser will request Commander Griffin to bring her to this city.

As estimated the Paducah will not draw more than 14 feet of water and the present stage will suffice for the trip. The distance to New Orleans by river is 950 miles, and the boat could make 100 miles a day easily. No stops likely would be made on the trip up the river and the craft should arrive here by January 9.

Blacksmith of Leyhe Fleet Falls into Tennessee River and Drowns While Riding Away From Paducah.

Bob Lane, of St. Louis, Sinks Under Water in View of Companions, and His Body Has Not Been Recovered.

Bob Lane, blacksmith with the Leyhe fleet, tied up in the Duck's Nest for the winter, fell into the Tennessee river Christmas night and was drowned, according to the story told by his two companions, Paul Rosan and Ben Read, laborers with the fleet. They were returning from Paducah in a skiff, they told Mate Alex Haley, of the Spread Eagle, and Lane was standing up. The skiff struck a log in the channel and he was thrown out. They tried to find him, but his body never rose to the surface.

The unfortunate man fell out near the bank, but all efforts to locate the body have been unavailing. Capt. Henry Leyhe, of St. Louis, will arrive this evening to institute an investigation.

Lane was 58 years old. He lived on Cass avenue, St. Louis, where his wife and six children survive him.

CHRISTMAS NIGHT BRAWL RESULTS IN BROKEN SKULL AND ARREST OF ONE

Ernest Rushing Charged With Striking Bert McHenry on Head With Maul During Carousal at Dry Ridge, Ill.

Metropolis, Ill., Dec. 27. (Special.)—As the result of a Christmas night brawl at Dry Ridge, this county, about 18 miles from Metropolis, Bert McHenry, 22 years old, lies in a precarious condition at his home near Samoth, and Ernest Rushing, 18 years old, is in jail here, awaiting trial for striking McHenry with a shingle maul. He denies the accusation.

About a dozen young fellows were at the home of Tom Dratton at Dry Ridge, having a carousal Christmas night. Four or five of them, including, it is said, McHenry and Rushing, engaged in an altercation on the porch, when McHenry was struck on the head with a maul. He was immediately carried inside and then removed to the home of his father, A. J. McHenry, a well known saw mill man.

Surgeons operated on McHenry this morning and removed a piece of skull the size of a dollar, to relieve pressure on the brain from the broken particles of bone.

Ernest Rushing is the son of T. J. Rushing, of Dry Ridge.

The notices were wrapped in small boxes with cross-bones marked on them and they had already sold to those who do not belong to the union. Several matches in both notes. The cause of a commotion was a crowd present. Both men were released.

POSSE HAS THEM SURROUNDED.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 27.—A man giving his name as Harry King, is supposed to be dying at Greenville, Ill., having been shot five times, after he had secured $18 in the Smithboro depot of the Vandavia Line. Marshal Embury Brown, of Sorento, Ill., was wounded in the hip.

According to Elmer Weaver, who was arrested at East St. Louis, he took part in the robbery, at the officers' suggestion to capture King, who is supposed to be a professional. King entered the depot at midnight and Weaver stood outside, and as a signal was given the officers seized Weaver. King began shooting, Weaver says. Officers then told him to go to St. Louis until the excitement died out. Weaver talked so much about the robbery on the train that he was arrested.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Protest Against Halpin.

New York, Dec. 27.—The Irish-American Athletic club has passed resolutions formally protesting against appointment of Matthew P. Halpin as manager of the Olympian games in London next year. The club bases its protest on the statements of club members of the Olympic team at Athens last year, which was managed by Mr. Halpin, that he was unwell, and at times boorish. The club states distinctly that it has no candidate for the position. When informal protests against Mr. Halpin were made some weeks ago, members of the American Olympic committee stated that no new appointments would be made and any athletes who did not wish to go to London with Mr. Halpin as manager of the team could stay at home.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Paul Gilmore, at The Kentucky Tonight.

Tonight—Paul Gilmore in "The Wheel of Love," Saturday "The Three of Us," Monday, "The Time, The Place and the Girl."

Paul Gilmore.

Concerning tonight's attraction at the Kentucky the Augusta Herald says:

One of the very largest houses of the season greeted Augusta's great favorite, Paul Gilmore, last night, in his new play, "The Wheel of Love." Not only was the house the largest and decidedly the most fashionable of the season, but it was the most appreciative. Always, Mr. Gilmore carries his audience along with him in a deep wave of enthusiasm, but this was true to a marked degree of his auditors of last evening. Their decidedly approving attitude was testified to in the most spontaneous laughter and applause and in persistent curtain calls that would not be silenced until the young actor responded with a little speech delivered in his usual happy manner.

Under such conditions it would be impossible for any capable actor to do other than good work, and Mr. Gilmore was at his happy best last night. He seemed to positively radiate the sunshine one comes to associate with his histrionic work, and his audience were so completely in sympathy that the raucous of the star and the pleasure of the audience reacted one upon the other until the whole evening was one great blaze of laughter and joy. In creating these most desirable effects, Mr. Gilmore has had ample material furnished him by the playwright who has furnished him with some exceedingly clever lines. The play is comedy pure and simple, the clean, wholesome kind of comedy in which this particular star so delights. Not for all his ability as an actor does Mr. Gilmore deserve more praise than for the consistency with which he upholds his belief that the sane and the healthy is what is to be desired on the stage.

"The Time, the Place and the Girl," which comes Monday night, by its title, is not a musical comedy, but a "comedy with music." That is to say that, its dramatic values would be sufficient to provide an evening's entertainment for a mental adult, even if there were no songs to enliven the proceedings. It is legitimate comedy, with a sane plot and situations, and legitimately enhanced by two or three delightful reproductions of unusual and amusing character types.

The most interesting characters in the piece are those of "Happy" Johnny Hicks and Molly Kelly, played by Harry Short and Miss Elizabeth Goodall, the latter a recent recruit from the legitimate stage. Hicks is a bright, good-hearted young gambler, full of fine Irish sentiment and sparkling Irish wit. Molly Kelly is a trained nurse, sophisticated but not unpleasantly so, with a perfect mastery of the gentle art of repartee. These two meet in a Virginia mountain "great cure," whither Hicks has fled with his rich chum, Tom Cunningham, who is in trouble, and they fall in love. It happens that Cunningham, in a controversy with a card shark in Boston, smashed his opponent with a wine bottle. When the officers of the law follow them to their hiding place at the sanitarium, Hicks shoulders the blame—only to find that the injured man is the black sheep brother of Molly, the nurse.

Though the piece could be played without the music, Mr. Howard's pretty songs make it doubly attractive. There are a dozen musical numbers in the play, but they are all fitting and descriptive and never in the way of the plot development. The particular hits are "Thursday Is My Jonah Day," "It's Lonesome Tonight," and "Blow the Smoke Away." The large and agile chorus which assists in the rendition of the score, was trained by Ned Wayburn, who in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," manifests the most skillful phases of his art as a stage director.

Marlowe Stars in New Play. Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—Julia Marlowe appeared for the first time this season as a star at the head of her own company at the Adelphi theatre. She assumed the title role in "Gloria," a new comedy written for her by James B. Fagan, a young Irishman whose writings are unknown in America. Whipping is the theme of the new play, the action centering around the punishment indicted upon a headstrong, captivating Italian girl who scoffs at her lovers and takes delight in sending them on fools' errands.

Sir Phillip Lilly, an Englishman, is the victim of a particularly cruel hoax, and he decides to treat her in the way that bad children are punished. This works a marvelous cure, for Gloria's rage is transformed into love.

Welcome to Ethel Barrymore.

New York, Dec. 27.—Miss Ethel Barrymore, found favor and a warm welcome from a genial audience when she appeared for the first time in New York in a new play called "Her Sister," the joint composition of Clyde Fitch and Cosmo G. Lennox. Ingeniously and cleverly constructed, with the seeming design of affording Miss Barrymore an opportunity of displaying her talents, the play is replete with incidents sometimes sentimental.

Miss Barrymore plays the part of a bright young woman who earns her way by fortune telling, designating herself "Isis" and pretending to be an Egyptian prophetess. Situations developing in the home of a family in which she had become attached to a member furnished opportunities for excellent acting.

"Fencing Girl" Charges.

New York, Dec. 27.—Beatrice Brevan, who gained fame as one of the Fencing Girls, and has had three husbands to her credit, appeared in the West Side court today against Albert Donald Walk, a young broker, of Easton, Pa., whom she accused of taking two diamond rings and a watch to the value of $2,200 from her chateau bag. Walk waived examination and was held in $3,000 bail for trial.

Miss Brevan said that she lunched with Walk at the Hotel Majestic on June 1 last, and missed her jewelry after she left him. She had been looking for him ever since, she averred, with the aid of detectives.

Badly Mixed Up.

Abraham Brown, of Winterton, N. Y., had a very remarkable experience. He says: "Doctors not badly mixed up over me; one said heart disease; two called it kidney trouble; the fourth, blood poison and the fifth stomach and liver trouble; but none of them helped me; so my wife advised trying Electric Bitters, which are restoring me to perfect health. One bottle did me more good than all the five doctors prescribed." Guaranteed for blood poison, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, by all druggists, 50c.

SEES MENACE IN SHIP'S CRUISE.

Archbishop Glennon Deplores War Parade at Christmas Season.

St. Louis, Dec. 28.—Archbishop J. Glennon in his sermon at the old cathedral Christmas morning took as his text the sapiential, "Merry Christmas." In the course of his sermon the archbishop spoke of the cruise of the fleet of battleships to the Pacific. He deprecated the spectacle at this season of the year, the season of "peace on earth, good will toward men," and said that it was a maneuver ostensibly of a peaceful mission, but with a secret note of menace in it, a policy of "carrying the palm of peace in one hand and a sword in the other."

STATE REVENUE LAW AMENDMENT

Will Be Considered By Kentucky Legislature.

Dog Tax Law Will Be Abolished to Please the Country Politicians.

GOSSIP OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Of the three measures which are generally admitted to have been the most important enacted into law at the last session of the legislature, it is believed that only one will come in for any considerable attention at the coming session, says the Kentucky State Journal. The three acts referred to were the bill placing a tax upon the business of rectifying whisky; the county unit local option law, and the revenue and taxation bill. Of these three, the last named will doubtless receive much consideration from the new general assembly. For two years, or since the enactment of the bill by the last assembly, a commission has been at work studying the alleged defects of Kentucky's taxation and revenue laws and seeking to frame a bill which will prove more satisfactory to the people of the state generally. It was only after a similar commission had worked hard and long that the 1906 revenue act was evolved, but the claim is made that that act left many defects to be remedied, and ambitious statesmen are sure to be ready with amendments when the session is called to order.

In regard to the rectifiers' tax act, it is not believed that any attempt will be made to change its provisions, that fight having been settled at the last session. Considerable speculation exists as to what legislation may be attempted affecting the temperance question. After the 1906 assembly had enacted its county unit bill, which made the local option power extend to the whole counties, except those with a city of the first four classes, the prediction was freely made that the 1908 assembly would go a step farther and eliminate the first four class cities' provision from the bill; others prophesied that state wide prohibition would be the result of the temperance wave which has apparently been sweeping over the southern part of the country during the past few years. Politics besides making "strange bed fellows," can always be relied upon to make rapid mutations in the drift of public sentiment within a short space of time. It is this force which is believed to have so changed the views of many of the coming leaders of the new general assembly, which may render nugatory any effort to adopt further temperance legislation at this time.

One circumstance, however, has not been reckoned with by the majority of those who have watched the trend of sentiment and endeavor to forecast legislation that will find favor with the saloons. This is that at the time of its full strength the anti-saloon organization, much thought was given to the legislative nominees for the coming session and where a man was known to stand for more drastic temperance legislation he received powerful support, in many instances from the temperance believers of the other party. In the general election, a big majority of strong temperance men were elected and it may be that by their individual effort and unity of feeling that something may be done, even without the strong moral and physical backing furnished by the league, at the last session.

Repeal of Dog Tax Probable.

It is believed to be practically certain that the great bugaboo of the country politician, the Dog Tax law, is due to receive its death blow in the coming session. The father of the dog law, Representative Ed Cream, of Bullitt county, will not be on hand to protect his favorite child. Standing as sponsor for this law, the Democratic party is believed to have lost several thousand votes because of it.

Many other measures of more or less importance, run on the books by the last general assembly will probably be amended or revised by the new assembly. So popular has been the state normal school acts that it is believed that little opposition will be found to larger appropriations for the support of the two institutions. Kentucky State College, will receive $60,000 more to continue and carry out its great work. Many of the state's charity and eleemosynary institutions will seek additional funds for enlargement and improvement. And then the members will be asked to make additional appropriation for the completion of the new waste disposal.

No Redistricting by Democrats.

From the Republican side of the body will come the redistricting bill on which the Republican administration will concentrate its strength. The bi-partisan board of control of many of the state's penal, charitable and educational institutions may also come from the Republican members. Notwithstanding Governor Wilson has set himself resolutely to attempt to enact these bills, little encouragement has so far been found on the

GOVERNMENT IS BEING BLAMED

For Black Hand Outrages By Italian Detectives.

Known Criminals Should Be Instantly Deported—Scout Idea of Organized Society.

NEW LAWS MUST BE PASSED.

New York, Dec. 27.—The police here scout the idea that there is a central headquarters of the Black Hand society in Pittsburg, as the constabulary of that city declared, after the arrest of a band of nineteen alleged members. Nor do detectives of the Italian bureau, who have taken part in hundreds of raids on black mailing and bomb throwing gangs, believe there is any such thing as a school of assassination, where the Black Handers are trained in the art of murder.

The head of the bureau, Lieut. Petrosino, said today:

"There is no national, or even local, head of the Black Hand society, that has any control over the hundreds of little bands which ply their trade of blackmail. If there was any head, it would be right here in New York."

"Within the past year we have arrested more than two thousand Black Hand criminals and obtained a fine percentage of convictions. Going back over the records and crimes of these men, however, it is manifest that they have no central organization."

"That they use the same methods is not from any training or general direction, but merely a matter of imitation. One group or gang learns that the methods of another gang are successful, and naturally they imitate these methods, sometimes so closely that their threatening letters are worded in the same language and the exact terrifying symbols used."

"Grafters of every sort nowadays use the dread insignia of the black hand as a threat, though they never heard of the Camorra of Naples or any of the Sicilian societies of brigands. In Italy there was a big organization until last April, when we got Enrico Alfano, the Neapolitan head of the Camorra, who is now on trial for murder in Italy."

"Before the assassination of President McKinley," continued Petrosino, "I warned the United States government that some arrangements should be made between this country and Italy to check admission to this country of so many desperate criminals. Some law should be passed that would make it easy for us to deport these men, brand them as criminals and keep them out of the country for all time."

"It would seem now that there are countless thousands of these men, who follow the methods of the Camorra at home, and are dreaded everywhere as Black Hand gangs. Yet, so long as the government will take no notice of it and make no effort to check this sort of immigration, the police will be practically powerless to cope with the spread of so-called Black Hand crimes."

"It's hard to lose the savings of a lifetime," "Oh, not so hard. I know of a dozen men with schemes that you could go into."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Democratic side.

Although just what form it will take has, it is said, not yet been determined, there are strong reports that several bills will be offered to the legislature directly affecting the tobacco situation in Kentucky. That is the bills will be designed to relieve conditions which at present are believed by many of the tobacco growers to be caused by the arbitrary powers and authority possessed by several of the great corporations under present laws.

Talk of two-cent rate bills are heard now and then, and there is little doubt but that strong efforts will be made to pass railroad legislation of this character, through the assembly. The railroads, it is claimed, will endeavor to show the members that the traffic through Kentucky is not sufficient to make a two-cent rate profitable.

County Board Bill.

Of paramount interest to teachers, pupils and all interested in educational affairs in the state will be the bill which will be offered providing for a radical change in the management of the county schools. The most popular form of a new law is for what has been called the county board system, in which the old trustee district is done away with, and the management and supervision of all of the schools of county, outside of a city which may have a system of its own, are placed under a common board. A bill which will meet with the approval of the various educational interests of the state is now being drawn by a special committee appointed by the state educational improvement commission, and it is believed that it will be passed without trouble. This bill will be entirely non-political, and will have the support of all the educational forces of the state.

river for a distance of several hundred feet. They were dug for the accommodation of the great fleets of flat boats, which were loaded here, chiefly with cotton, and floated down the Forked Deer to the Mississippi and down that river to New Orleans, where after their freight was sold, the boats were broken up and sold for wood, the merchants returning by steamboat with their purchases to Memphis or some nearer point from which their good were hailed here in wagons.

The first steamboat to "plough the waters of the Forked Deer" was "The Ann Lancaster," which was owned by Mr. Samuel Lancaster, one of Jackson's most prominent early settlers, and the grandfather of our former City Engineer, Mr. Sam C.
Lancaster.

The little boat was named for Mr.
Lancaster's wife, but it went to a watery grave so many, many years ago that very little of its tradition could be learned, except that it foundered just east of the McClanahan levee bridge, where a part of the wreck was long pointed out by the older citizens.

In 1855, the late "Capt." John Smith, who visited the New Orleans exposition, purchased a small steamboat in the Crescent City, which was delivered to its captain and launched at the mouth of the Forked Deer.
Capt. Smith took command of the "Lula May" and steamed up to Jackson, with bell ringing and whistles blowing.

The "Lula May" was intended as a pleasure boat and was used as such for several years, but, alas! she came to grief by running upon a sandbar near "Dolly's hole," and the excusionists had to all walk home by the "light of the moon."

The Forked Deer Blade, of August 8th, 1885, has a cut of the "Lula May," by Mr. J. G. Clisco, then the editor of the "Blade," and as it is not generally known that this versatile gentleman is an artist, his friends might wish to get a facsimile of this, his masterpiece.

Mrs. Smith, widow of the late captain of the "Lula May," is our authority for the statement that her husband traded the stranded "Lula May" to a wood dealer for a horse, and what finally became of it, is not definitely known, but there are two reports current, one that it was burned and another that it blew up.

Now, if as long ago as the "forties" and "fifties" the "Ann Lancaster" could ply the waters of this river before a stump had ever been "pulled"
or a "drag" used, and the "Lula May" could career up and down the stream from 1885 to 1887, laden with pleasure seekers, why cannot we return to first principles and use the means that God has given us, to improve our commercial and business interest.

If our grandfathers and great-grandfathers could float their cotton, corn, hides, etc., to the New Orleans market down the entirely unimproved river, why cannot we open it for navigation and profit by cheap river freights?—Jackson Sun.

High Trestles, Where Many Have Been Hurt or Killed, Are Soon to Be Done Away With.

The high trestles on the Illinois Central railroad between the Union station and the stockyards are soon to be replaced with concrete arches, which will be built high enough only to give an outlet to backwater, which fills the low places in early spring.
A number of accidents, two of them fatal, have occurred in the past when people were caught on the trestles by trains, or by becoming frightened by approaching trains and attempting to jump from danger.
Sand for the concrete work already has been placed on the ground and the company's concrete gang, which is now employed in putting in similar arches near Edgelyville, will be here soon to begin the work.

Unnecessary whistling and bell ringing in the corporate limits of the towns and cities along the Illinois Central must be avoided hereafter by engineers according to a bulletin issued by the superintendent. The order applies especially to the towns of Clinton, Ky., and Martin, Tenn., where complaint has been made by city officials.

BLINDFOLDED

A Mystery Story
of San Francisco

BY
EARLE ASHLEY WALCOTT

(Copyright 1908, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

She was silent for a few minutes, and I saw that her eyes were filled with tears.

Then she said, "Now tell me about Henry Wilton—how he died and when."

I told the tale as it had happened, and as I told it I read in the face before me the varying emotions of alarm, horror and grief that were stirred by its incidents. But one thing I could not tell her. The wolf-face I had seen in the lantern flash in the alley I could not name nor describe to the wife of Doddridge Knapp.

Mrs. Knapp bowed her head in deep, gloomy thought.

"I feared it, yet he would not listen to my warnings," she murmured. "He would work his own way." Then she looked me suddenly straight in the face.

"And why did you take his place, his name? Why did you try to do his work when you had seen the dreadful end to which it had brought him?"

I confessed that it had half through the insistence of Detective Coogan that I was Henry Wilton, half through the course of events that seemed to make it the easiest road to reach the vengeance that I had vowed to bring the murderer of my friend.

"You are bent on avenging him?"

asked Mrs. Knapp thoughtfully.

"I have promised it."

"I have marveled at you," said Mrs.
Knapp after a pause. "I marvel at you yet. You have carried off your part well."

"Not well enough, it seems, to deceive you," I said, a little bitterly.

"You should not have expected to deceive me," said Mrs. Knapp. "But you can imagine the shock I had when I saw that it was not Henry Wilton who had come among us that first night when I called you from Mr.
Knapp's room."

"You certainly succeeded in concealing any surprise you may have felt," I said. "You are a better actor than I."

Mrs. Knapp smiled.

"It was more than surprise—it was consternation," she said. "I had been anxious at receiving no word from Henry. I suppose you got my notes.
And when I saw you I was torn with doubts, wondering whether anything had happened to Henry."

THE THREE OF US. SAID AT LAST, IN WILTON'S LAST.

"Tell the captain to wait here for us with fires up," said Mrs. Knapp. "The carriage should be somewhere around here," she continued, peering anxiously
about as we reached the foot of the wharf.

"This way," said a familiar voice,
and a man stepped from the shadow.

"Dicky Nahl!" I exclaimed.

"Mr. Wilton!" mimicked Dicky.

"But it's just as well not to speak so loud. Here you are. I put the hack's lights out just to escape unpleasant
remarks."

Mrs. Knapp entered the carriage and called to me to follow her.

I remembered Mother Borton's warnings and my doubts of Dicky Nahl.

"You're certain you know where you are going?" I asked him in an under-tone.

"No, I'm not," said Dicky frankly.
"I've found a man who says he knows.
We are to meet him. We'll get there between 3 and 4 o'clock. He won't say another word to anybody but her or you. I guess he knows what he is about."

"Well, keep your eyes open. Meek-er's gang is ahead of us. Is the driver reliable?"

"Right as a judge," said Dicky cheerfully. "Now, if you'll get in
with madame we won't be wasting
time here."

I stepped into the carriage. Dicky Nahl closed the door softly and climbed
on the seat by the driver, and in a moment we were rolling up Broadway in
the gloomy stillness of the early morning hour.

OUTFITTERS TO MEN AND BOYS

"I didn't suppose I was quite so poor an imposter," I said apologetically, with a quail at the word. "Though I did get some hint of it," I added, with a painful recollection of the candid statement of opinion I had received from the daughter of the house.

"Oh, you did very well," said Mrs.
Knapp kindly, "but no one could have been successful in that house. Luella was quite outraged over it, but I managed to quiet her."

"I hope Miss Knepp has not retained the unfavorable impressions of —er—" I stammered in much confusion.

Mrs. Knapp gave me a keen glance.

"You know she has not," she said.

"Well," continued Mrs. Knapp,
"when I saw you and guessed that something had happened to Henry Wilton, and found that you knew little of what was going on, I changed the plan of campaign. I did not know that you were one to be trusted, but I saw that you could be used to keep the others on a false scent, for you deceived everybody but us."

"I would have spoken when I found you for what you are," said Mrs.
Knapp, "but I thought until the Liver-more trip that you could serve me best as you were doing."

"It was blind work," I said.

"It was blind enough for you, not for me. I was deceived in one thing, however; I thought that you had no papers—nothing from Henry that could help or hurt. The first night you came to us I had Henry's room thoroughly searched."

"Oh, I was indebted to you for that attention," I exclaimed. "I gave our friends of the other house the credit."

Mrs. Knapp smiled again.

"I thought it necessary. It was the chance that you did not sleep there that night that kept this paper out of my hands weeks ago."

"I have always kept it with me," I said.

"I did not need it till Sunday," continued Mrs. Knapp. "I have been worried much at the situation of the boy, but I did not dare go near him. Henry and I decided that his hiding place was not safe. We had talked of moving him a few days before you came.
When I found that Henry had disappeared I was anxious to make the change, but I could not venture to attempt it until the others were out of town, for I knew I was watched. Then I was assured from Mother Borton that they did not know where the boy was hidden, and I let the matter rest.
But a few days ago—on Saturday—she sent me word that she thought they had found the place. Then it came to me to send you to Livermore with the other boy—oh, I hope no harm came to the little fellow," she exclaimed anxiously.

"He's safe in my rooms to charge of Walnwright," I said. "He got back on the morning train, and can be had for the asking."

"Oh, I'm so glad," said Mrs. Knapp.

"I was afraid something would happen to him, but I had to take desperate chances. Well, you see my plan succeeded. They all followed you.
But when I went to the hiding place the boy was gone. Henry had moved him weeks ago, and had died before he could tell me. Then I thought you might know more than you had told me—that Henry Wilton might have got you to help him when he made the change, and I wrote to you."

"And the key," I said, remembering the expression of the note. "Did you mean this diagram?"

"No," said Mrs. Knapp. "I meant the key to our cipher code. I was looking over Henry's letters for some hint of a hiding place and could not find the key to the cipher. I thought you might have been given one, I found mine this afternoon, though, and there was no need of it, so it didn't matter after all."

The pitching and tossing of the boat had ceased. And, a minute later, with clang of bells and groan of engine we were at the wharf and were helped ashore.

"Tell the captain to wait here for us
with fires up," said Mrs. Knapp. "The
about as we reached the foot of the
wharf.

"This way," said a familiar voice,
and a man stepped from the shadow.

"Dicky Nahl!" I exclaimed.

"Mr. Wilton!" mimicked Dicky.

"But it's just as well not to speak so
loud. Here you are. I put the hack's
remarks."

Mrs. Knapp entered the carriage and
called to me to follow her.

I remembered Mother Borton's warnings and my doubts of Dicky Nahl.

"You're certain you know where you are going?" I asked him in an under-
tone.

"No, I'm not," said Dicky frankly.
"I've found a man who says he knows.
We are to meet him. We'll get there between 3 and 4 o'clock. He won't
say another word to anybody but her
or you. I guess he knows what he is about."

"Well, keep your eyes open. Meek-er's gang is ahead of us. Is the driver
reliable?"

"Right as a judge," said Dicky
cheerfully. "Now, if you'll get in
with madame we won't be wasting
time here."

I stepped into the carriage. Dicky Nahl closed the door softly and climbed
on the seat by the driver, and in a moment we were rolling up Broadway in
the gloomy stillness of the early morning hour.

THREE OF US

STRONG BILL AT KENTUCKY
THEATER TOMORROW.

Chicago Record-Herald's Critic Calls
It Nearest to Great American Play.

"The Three of Us," which the Kentucky offers as a main-attraction and night bill tomorrow, is one of those western plays of the character of "The Virginian," "Strongheart," and "The Great Divide," and easily ranks with the best of them. The play is simplicity itself, and the critic will ask himself what there is in it that is so appealing, the acting or the play. It is one of those plays which cannot fail to be good, notwithstanding the actors, whether they are good or indifferent, and which, when played by a good cast, strikes one as a classic.
James O'Donnel Bennett, the brilliant critic of the Chicago Record-Herald, said: "The Three of Us" approaches the great American play, for which critics and play-goers have been seeking so long, nearer than any other offering of the day. The company coming to Paducah is an excellent one, and those Paducah theater-goers, who appreciate a good bit of acting, a strong, virile story, have the assurance of Managers Carvey and Goodman that they have nothing better and few things as good to offer this season as "The Three of Us."

BROTHER ELOPES WITH HIS BROTHER'S WIFE.

Mayfield, Ky., Dec. 27.—A message was received in this city from Fulton asking Chief McNutt to be on the lookout for a man by the name of Laird, and a woman by the same name.

The message stated that the man, Laird, had just returned from a fourteen-year-stay in the west and had come home to see his brother, who lives near Fulton. He arrived Saturday and the Tennessee brother issued the returned prodigal to meet his wife. When he met her, he recognized her as a sweetheart of his school days. The brother who had returned and the wife of the brother who had stayed, renewed confidences and when Mr. Laird returned to dinner, he found his long lost brother and his wife gone together.
A buggy and horse had been secured and the two were traced as far as Fulton. From there it was thought the two headed for this city.
The officers here are on the watch for the couple and should they arrive here they will be arrested and sent back to Tennessee.

It was understood from the message that the offended brother was not as desirous of repossessing himself of his wife as he was of getting revenge for the unbrotherly act played upon him.

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Delightful Dance Last Evening.

Some of the members of the former Paducah German club and the Cottillon club enjoyed a pleasant dance last evening at the Knights of Columbus hall. Deal's band furnished the music. It was an old-time program dance, without the cotillon feature. After the dance a delightful supper was served at the Palmer House cafe. Those in attendance were: Dr. and Mrs. Frank Boyd, Messrs. and Mesdames James P. Smith, Oscar L. Gregory, Frank Rieke, John S. Blecker, and W. F. Bradshaw, Jr.; Mesdames Lillie Boyd, Clara Burnett; Misses Mary Boswell, Faith Langstaff, Sadie Paxton, Messrs. Wallace Weil, Charles Alcott, Joe Exall, Edwin Clark, Louis Rieke, Jr., Joseph L. Friedman and Edwin J. Paxton.

Misses Ola and Lucille Dossett entertained their friends Tuesday evening at their home, 2339 Broadway, in honor of Miss Mattie B. Sullivan, of Mayfield. The color scheme of red and green was carried out in the decorations. Those present were Misses Mattie B. Sullivan, of Mayfield; Bertha Thompson, Ada Barkley, Moralee Rudolph, Nettie Sanderson, Louise Weiland, Alma Adams, Linnie Sanderson, Lucille Dossett, Artie Sanderson, Bessie Weiland, Roxie Cross, Annie Ragsdale and Ella Dossett, and Messrs. Attractive Doll Reception at Grassham Home.

Miss Pauline Grassham, the little daughter of Hon. and Mrs. C. C. Grassham, 1643 Jefferson street, was the hostess of a pretty doll reception on Thursday afternoon at her home, complimentary to her doll bride and bridegroom. The house was attractively decorated throughout with holly wreaths and red Christmas balls. The color scheme of red, white and green was carried out most effectively in the arrangement of the table in the dining room. The centerpiece was a chimney with snow banked about the base and on the top, and peeping out of it was Santa Claus with his pack. Hanging from the chimney were tiny stockings filled with red minted sticks and a tiny doll. Red ribbons with tiny gift bells extended from the stockings to the plates, and after the refreshments were served, each child drew a stocking as a favor. Suspended over the table from the chandelier was a wreath of holly and a large Christmas bell of red. Bonbonnières of red and white round mints and red and green slick mints completed the pretty color effect of the table. The fees and cakes carried out the color motif in the brick cream and the cakes fed in holly.

One of the features of pleasure was a peanut hunt.

Laura Towpess received the prize, a pretty volume of Kate Douglas Wiggin's stories, for finding the greatest number of peanuts. Charlotte Wheeler, Elizabeth Tandy, Elizabeth Caldwell and Lena Utterback, cut for the boy prize, and Elizabeth Caldwell won. It was a jumping baboon. In receiving line with the little hostess were: Misses Elizabeth Tandy, S. La Verne Purcell, Edith Sherrell, Emma Boyd, Lucy Overby, Louise Campbell, presenting their dolls. In addition to the receiving party the guests were: Misses Lucie Covington, Bertha Ferguson, Irene Flournoy, Grace Holland, Porter Holland, Mollie Gardner, Laura Townes, Elsie Eunice Voris, Ruth Hinkle, Mary Terry, Edith Cope, Anne Washington, Lena Utterback, Emma Gleaves, Janie Rivers, Charlotte Wheeler, Elizabeth Caldwell.

Fairbanks for the presidency. Resolutions were introduced by Governor J. Frank Hanley and adopted with a round of cheers by thousands and more active party workers of the state who were present. The principal speech in Fairbanks' favor was delivered by Senator Beveridge.

WORLD WOULD VANISH BUT PERHAPS NOT.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The world may not come to an end next week at all. Dr. Wm. D. Gentry, since making his discouraging prophecy a year ago, has taken a second thought, the result of which is the discovery of a loophole through which the old world may escape. Dr. Gentry is head of the Fifth Gospel Mission, 166 Clark street, and his followers say he foretold the great Chicago fire of 1871.

Dr. Gentry's premonition is that the coming affair will take place on or about Jan. 3, and may or may not come to pass within the limits of Chicago. It may be good, but, by the same sign, it may be bad.

JARRED HIM SOME.

The Boy Had Dynamite in His Pocket and Sat Down.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 27.—Dan Bradley, sixteen years old, son of a widow at Pratt City, a mining suburb of Birmingham, died this morning as a result of being blown up with dynamite at a Christmas party, given at Mike Dugan's house Wednesday night. The boy carried a piece of dynamite in his coat pocket. While on the porch he was jarred and the dynamite exploded.

The boy's right leg was torn off and his body was thrown violently through a window into the parlor where the guests were assembled. Several boys and girls were knocked down and others were badly shaken up by the explosion and by the boy striking them. The house was badly wrecked.

ENTERED BY TWENTY OF THE THIRTY DRUGGISTS.

Not Having to Pay Same License Saloons to Retail Intoxicating Liquors.

present the license is $25 for quantities not less than a quart.
In his contention Mr. Corbett declared that it is unfair, unjust and unequal, and maintained that a druggist charged such license could not retail liquor at a moderate price and do a legitimate business. The druggists that signed the petition agreed, if the high license passed, not to purchase one, and Corbett said that was the expression from other druggists in the city, who had not had an opportunity to sign the petition.
Councilman Lackey made the motion that the tax remain as this year and he secured a second.

Without any discussion the roll was called and the following answered: "aye." Lindsay, Flournoy, Foreman, Lackey, Ford, Wilson and those voting "nay": Crandell, Herzog, Van Meter and Williamson.

In the ordinance a license of $16 a year was placed on a band, but President Lindsay said that it would not encourage music, and would make a "trust." On motion it carried to not require a license from bands.

The new license was given first and second passage by the council, and a quorum of aldermen was present last night, but after a discussion they decided to meet today and give the ordinance passage.

Since the ordinance was passed by the council, the ordinance committee which it was referred by the alderman, added a license on storage houses, renting of launches, and renting of the drugists to retail the license on the bands removed, and the license on small loss.

DUTCH CABINET

RESIGNS AND DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT WILL FOLLOW.

Military Issue Will Be Paramount
in General Election to Be Called Soon.

The Hague, Dec. 27.—The Dutch cabinet, or council of ministers, comprising nine members, by whom the executive authority of this government is administered, presented its resignation. It is thought that the dissolution of the parliament is likely to follow. The resignation of the cabinet is due to the defeat of the army estimates in the second chamber of parliament. The opposition in the discussion of these estimates contended that the efficiency of the Dutch army was not proportionate to its cost. The clericals, who are opposed to the government's plan for universal suffrage, are pleased over the situation created by the cabinet's resignation, as they prefer that the expected general election, which is to follow, should be fought out on the military issue rather than on universal suffrage.

dow at the Palmer House caught fire

WIDOW SUES

WANTS $25,000 FOR DEATH OF MIKE GALVIN.

Aftermath of N. C. & St. L. Wreck
at Almo in Which One Man Was Killed.

Suit for $25,000 damages has been filed against the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad by Mrs.
Florence Galvin, widow of Engineer Mike Galvin, who was killed in the Almo wreck. Engineer Galvin was in charge of a freight engine when it collided with a light engine in charge of Engineer Sandy Herring, on a curve near Almo. Galvin jumped, but was caught under his engine and scalded. He was brought to Riverside hospital where he died one week later from the injuries.

OFFERED BRYAN SENATORSHIP.

Oklahoma Democrats Proposed Reward for Leading Statehood Fight.

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 27.—Thomas H. Doyle of Perry, recent aspirant for the Democratic nomination for governor, said today:

"One of the unwritten stories of Oklahoma politics is that William J.
Bryan was invited and for a time seriously considered moving to Oklahoma to lead the fight for statehood, with the assurance that his reward would be election as one of Oklahoma's first United States senators.

This offer was made him in 1902 by me as spokesman of a Democratic workers conference, convinced that the only chance for statehood in a generation was in securing a leader of national prominence.

"Mr. Bryan, when I joined him on a train en route through Oklahoma to Texas, said he would much rather be a senator from a great state than President, and promised to consider the proposition. Several days later, on his return, he told me he had his newspaper and other interests in Lincoln, Neb., and he could not see how he could afford to take the step."

IMPORTANT INVITATION

TO CITY TAXPAYERS.

During this season it is a pleasure to inform all taxpayers who have not yet paid up that they may still pay the last half of their city taxes during December without penalty.

After this month Ten per cent.
must be added to all unpaid bills.
Would respectfully ask all who can to call at the city treasurer's office soon as possible and thus avoid the discomfort and delay caused by the throng which is usual the last few days.

By complying with this request
you will greatly oblige

Yours very truly,
JOHN J. DORTMAN,
City Treasurer.

CUTTING THE WAY TOWARD INVENTORY!

A TREMENDOUS BIG SALE THAT STARTS TOMORROW MORNING.

NEVER before was an opportunity of this magnitude presented to you, to buy clothing at such prices so early in the season. We have reduced our entire stock in a regardless manner—in many instances cutting the price of the garments far below their actual cost—in order to reduce our stock materially before inventory. Each line has been considered separately, as you will notice below, the more broken the sizes the greater the reduction. It is well to remember that the very fact a lot is broken in size is the best proof of its popularity. Included in this sale is our entire line of Men's and Young Men's Black and Fancy Suits and Overcoats, as well as our entire stock of Children's Suits and Overcoats. It is hardly necessary for us to allude to the high standard of our clothing—it is so firmly entrenched in its position.

Below are examples of the reductions which prevail throughout entire stock:
